MYSTERY VEILING MURDER

FIND TEACHER DEAD IN COTTAGE; LACK OF CLEWS BAFFLING

Intruder Nearly Decapitated Woman In Illinois

CARMI, Ill., Dec. 22.—Finger print experts from St. Louis were engaged today to solve the mysterious murder of Miss Anna Preher, Carmi grade school teacher, nearly decapitated by an intruder who broke into her four-room cottage while she slept.

Although the teacher's assailant had attempted to burn the house to destroy evidence that might lead to his capture, there were few signs that robbery had figured in the motive.

Miss Preher's pocket book, containing small change, had not been touched. Throughout the room police found evidence of the struggle. The 47-year-old teacher had put up for her life. An alarm clock had been hurled into the stove. It had stopped at 6 or 6:30 and police believed the time was Friday morning as Miss Preher was last seen Thursday night at the teachers institute meeting here.

Miss Preher's clothing had been torn from her body and her throat was cut so deeply that investigators believed the assailant had attempted to decapitate her. Clothing, curtains and walls in the room bore blood stains which told their own story of the fight which had preceded Miss Preher's death.

Delegates to the teachers institute missed her at Friday's session and fearing illness or foul play, asked police to investigate. They found the body last night.

Another theory of the murder was that someone may have broken into Miss Preher's cottage early in the morning for the purpose of robbing her and that when the alarm clock went off shortly after 6 a. m. the robber was discovered. This theory embraces the supposition that the robber was recognized by the teacher and chose to kill her rather than flee and have her reveal his identity to the police.

WARD LEADERS ARE BARRED BY BOARD

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 22.—No more will the mysterious symbols of letters "bow" and "owl" appear on Cuyahoga County election board records. They were rendered obsolete today after members of the new board issued orders prohibiting councilmen and ward leaders from touching records.

The order was issued by President Maurice Bernon with the consent of other board members after the significance of the mysterious letters had been revealed.

"Bow" stands for "by order of ward leader" and when written over the name of a booth official, meant that the particular official had been summarily removed from his booth position.

In the future any changes in booth election organizations will be made by the board itself, Bernon said.

All prospective precinct workers, some 7,000 in all, will be interviewed personally by board members before they are put to work, Bernon said.

Mine Conditions Better

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—Christmas will be much brighter this year for hundreds of miners and their families in Ohio, chief of the coal mining sections, according to Jerome Watson, of the state division of mines. Destitution has been reduced considerably since last year, and with the current improvement in working and marketing conditions, a brighter outlook is seen for 1929, he said.

Unemployment troubles in southern and southeastern Ohio regions are not as acute, as many of the miners have taken up their tools and resumed work after an extended idle period. Many workers have moved into other fields and some of the remainder have found other lines of work, according to Watson.

Many towns, whose business depends entirely on miners' trade, are again coming to life after many months of hibernation following the general shut-down. New families are moving in and local merchants report a favorable increase in business for the holiday season.

With the opening of the Great Lakes shipping in February, a steadily increasing demand for Ohio coal can be anticipated, the state mine chief says. No better average coal than Ohio's is mined in the United States, he contends.

The state division's figures list 1039 mines now in operation. This is a much larger number than were working last winter. Incomplete statistics show at least a 20 per cent increase in employment and tonnage over the same period.

A total of 25,382 men are now working in Ohio mines. Of this number, shipping mines employ 19,930; and wagon mines, 5,402.

SPECTACULAR RACE ACROSS NATION HAS ENDED PEACEFULLY

Doctor Who Chased Heir-ess Explains His Purpose

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—A young man who pursued a pretty young woman across the country from New York was doing his best today to belittle the spectacular aspects of his hasty train and airplane trip to the Pacific coast.

Dr. Olan Meeker appeared to be greatly perturbed at the publicity his transcontinental dash has attracted.

"The whole thing is quite simple," Meeker explained. "Miss McConnell has not been well. She disappeared from Rochester, I was asked by her family to trace her and see that she was taken care of. We did not think she was well enough to travel alone."

Meeker set about to see Miss McConnell and explain it all over again to her. She previously had given her own account of the matter, saying that her relatives were meddling in her affairs and denying any illness.

Just what Meeker told Miss McConnell or what Miss McConnell told Meeker was not known.

Meeker went on to explain the part played by Kenneth Coulter, wealthy friend of Miss McConnell's parents.

"The only part Coulter had in the matter was to act as an adviser since Miss McConnell's father was out of town and her mother felt he could take care of it better than she could."

Miss McConnell talked to Coulter for forty minutes by telephone after her arrival. She accused him of putting someone on her trail and of trying to send her to a sanitarium for her health. He denied it all.

"I'm tired of all of you ordering me around," she told Coulter. "You're trying to control my life and make an invalid of me. I'm having a wonderful time out here."

Miss McConnell intends to wait here for her mother, Mrs. Rachael McConnell, reported enroute here from Indianapolis, and then go to Portland, Ore., to see an aunt, Mrs. Ethel Hicks.

Mrs. Hicks hinted another possible explanation of the hurried trip west.

"Miss McConnell wrote her grandmother and me two weeks ago from New York," she said, "saying she was to be married to Mr. Coulter. She had many moments of indecision."

She intimated that Ruth might have wished to see if distance had any effect on her affections, with a view to breaking off the engagement if she found it did.

INCREASE HOPE FOR MISSING COUPLE

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., Dec. 22.—Hope that Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Hyde, missing after an attempt to navigate the Grand Canyon, might be found alive, increased today.

Riversmen prepared to build and launch a boat at Diamond Creek to search for the missing couple. It was near there that the Hydies empty scow was sighted Wednesday and it was felt that they might be found in the vicinity.

The couple embarked on a "honeymoon-trip" voyage down the river and have not been reported since November 15.

NURSES CARE FOR "SANTA CLAUS"

STEUERENVILLE, O., Dec. 22.—Nurses at Ohio Valley Hospital today were caring for a baby boy found last night in a holly-decorated basket on the front porch of Mrs. Beulah Hanes' home.

Unworried at Fate

Apparently unworried, Vincent Rice, 17, of Port Richmond, N. Y., smiled cheerfully as he pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying of Alice Joost, his schoolgirl sweetheart. His second degree plea makes him liable to 20 years imprisonment.

SEEK GIRL WITNESS IN HELDMAN PROBE; SUSPECT GRILLED

Find New Evidence Against Husband Of Dead Woman

CANTON, O., Dec. 22.—Disappearance of Mary Stenger of Akron promised today to add another mystery to the already involved Fearn murder case.

For days deputy sheriffs have been seeking the girl on a subpoena issued by Coroner T. C. McQuate. She was an intimate friend of Wilbur O. Heldman, who is held in jail pending investigation of his story that his wife Margaret, 19, confessed to the murder of Vernard E. Fearn, Waco coal dealer, and then shot herself.

Coroner McQuate hopes that the missing girl can shed more light on the incidents that led up to the murder of Fearn and the death of Mrs. Heldman.

The girl still was in Akron after the murder, but shortly after the death of Mrs. Heldman and the detention of Heldman, she disappeared.

Her parents live near Cleveland, and they have promised to aid authorities in locating her. Her mysterious absence is causing them some alarm, police said.

Ora Slater, special detective here to aid in the investigation of the case, said that Heldman would not be released until the girl has been found and her story told.

Plans to question Heldman have again been delayed while the coroner pursues his new line of investigation.

CHOIR BOY KILLED
AKRON, Dec. 22.—Leon Edmister, 11, who sang in the boys' choir at St. Martin's church, was killed here when he fell beneath the wheels of an automobile.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—A white Christmas for the Middle West was forecast today as snow fell over most of the territory.

The snow storm started in Chicago and vicinity last night and continued early today. The mercury will remain low enough to keep the snow from melting before Christmas, the government forecast said.

Snow storms of varying degrees of intensity were reported from Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Ohio.

So far the snow laden cold wave has taken a toll of nine lives, three of them in Chicago. St. Paul reported too dead due to the storm. Three college students were killed in an auto crash in Munster, Mich. An airmail pilot, Les McGinn, was

CONGRESS PLEASED WITH SUCCESS OVER BOULDER DAM BILL

Claims Record For Accomplishments In Brief Time

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Congress is winding up the first three weeks of its short session today, its leaders claiming to have established a record for legislative accomplishments.

Although the senate failed to act on the anti-war treaty and the naval cruiser bill, it did end a seven year old legislative fight over the Boulder Dam bill, enabling it to become a law.

It passed the disputed convict labor bill and started government supply bills totalling $2,900,000,000 on their way toward final enactment.

Leaders claim this record has never been equalled in such a short space of time, especially with so many days wasted at the start and the end of the session.

The treasury-postoffice bill and the interior department appropriation bill totalling nearly $2,000,000,000 have been passed by both houses and sent to the president.

The state, commerce, justice and labor department bills passed by the house are coming up in the senate this afternoon for speedy passage.

The agriculture department appropriation bill passed by the house will go over until after the holidays in the senate, as will also the nomination of Secretary of Interior Roy Owsen to which strong opposition has now developed.

Agricultural leaders in both houses showed little reaction to the announcement of secretary of agriculture that he favored early adoption of the new McNary-Haugen bill without the equalization fee.

Farm leaders in both houses have been fairly well agreed that farm relief should wait for the special session after March 4 and many think they can persuade President-elect Hoover to sign a better bill from their standpoint than President Coolidge would sign.

A short session in both houses is in prospect for today.

DIVORCE HEARING HAS BEEN DELAYED

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 22.—Hearing on the divorce suit of Mrs. Laura Ash, Pittsburgh, against the Rev. Floyd Ash, former pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church at Uhrichsville, has been continued to January 15.

Efforts to effect a settlement failed. A 16-year-old girl who formerly lived in the Ash home, and who was named in Mrs. Ash's petition, is now held at the county children's home at Dover.

The Rev. Mr. Ash resigned his pastorate when the suit was filed, but continued as secretary of the ministerial association at Uhrichsville and Dennison.

EXCLUSIVE CHURCH DESTROYED BY FIRE BEFORE OCCUPANCY

Million Dollar Loss Caused; Fosdick Was Pastor

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The newly built Riverside Church, covering an entire block in the exclusive Riverside Drive section, was destroyed by fire last night.

Damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

The edifice, made possible largely by donations from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was completed except for the installation of windows. It was to have been the largest church in the United States with the exception of cathedrals.

At first it was thought the fire might have started from one of the small furnaces which were used to dry plaster, but investigation showed that was not the case. Today firemen were conducting an inquiry to determine if the fire could have started in the heating plant.

Today only the blackened stone walls remained. Fire Chief John Kenon was bitter in his criticism of the builders who used wooden scaffolding. He said the flames were shooting too high to permit him to spray water.

Building experts said the fire probably warped the steel skeleton so much that it would not support the roof.

The fire was visible for miles on both sides of the Hudson River. Families in the immediate vicinity were forced to flee from their homes because of the intense heat and the water that streamed off the burning structure.

The Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the church, said he was thankful no lives were lost.

ALASKAN SMALLPOX EPIDEMIC CHECKED

JUNEAU, Alaska, Dec. 22.—The Alaskan smallpox epidemic is under control, Harry C. DeBighne, health commissioner of the territory, told the United Press today.

Vaccine, carried to the infected villages in an airplane by Dr. Sutherland, assistant health commissioner, has stopped the advance of the epidemic, DeBighne said.

Dr. Sutherland left Fairbanks and covered the entire lower Yukon delta, Norton Sound and the Seward peninsula, distributing fresh vaccine.

About 300 cases have been reported with only two deaths.

DeBighne said no dog teams have been used except for short journeys on easy trails.

Hundreds of deaths might have occurred had not the airplane distributed the vaccine, DeBighne said.

ROYAL FAMILY WILL FLEE FROM REVOLT

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—Several members of the royal family of Afghanistan will go to Kandahar, 280 miles distant from the capital Kabul, by airplane as soon as possible, a message to the foreign office from German legation in Kabul said today.

The removal will be a precautionary measure in connection with the revolt around Kabul.

King Amanullah will remain in Kabul and the foreign minister will accompany the royal party, the message added.

Official advices today said that fighting around Kabul continued and the capital is still in danger of capture.

The German legation's message appears to dispose of the report that the foreign minister of Afghanistan had been captured by the rebels.

DETOURS LIFTED
COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—The state highway department today announced the elimination of the detour on State Route 11, the Dayton-Chillicothe Road in Ross County. A detour on the Portsmouth-Jackson Road, Route 129, Scioto County, has also been discontinued.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—Profanity is a lost art, Dr. Burgess Johnson professor of English at Syracuse University, told members of the Executive Club here.

"There no longer are any really effective cuss words," Dr. Johnson said. "Profanity is just a greeting, an indication of closest friendship and regard."

Cussing was a real accomplishment in Shakespeare's day, Dr. Johnson said.

Dr. Johnson said, and was looked upon as part of the early education of every boy.

"Now 'damna' is a weak expletive, meaning nothing and usually used as an adjective preceding almost every noun," Dr. Johnson said.

POLICE PROBE CHICAGO BOMBING

Either political gangsters or disgruntled persons, discharged from office, are believed by Chicago police to be responsible for the bombing of the home of Sanitary District Trustee Lawrence F. King. The Kings and their five children escaped injury although the blast shattered every window in the building.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WILL BATTLE BRITISH FOR TRADE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The U. S. Shipping Board has retaliated for British entrance into the New York-Cuba shipping trade by putting the President Roosevelt, onto the same run. Maritime authorities here, predicted today, this crack American vessel will give the British Caronia the fight of its life.

Meantime, it was learned, shipping board men are watching closely for possible British entry into the New York-San Francisco trade—via Cuba—and are understood to be ready to meet this with other strong ships if it materializes.

While entrance of the Cunard liner Caronia into New York-Havana service is not a violation of the law forbidding foreign ships to carry American coastwise trade, it may be a step toward New York-San Francisco traffic by way of Cuba. Commissioner Plummer of the U. S. Shipping Board told the United Press.

It would be a simple matter, the commission explained, for the Cunard Company to place two ships in service between California and Cuba to make connection with the New York line and still be within the law.

Plummer believes congress should place a 10 per cent adval-

KING BETTER AFTER SON RETURNS HOME

LONDON, Dec. 22.—King George was still in a serious condition although medical circles feel that he is now definitely on the mend.

The improvement in his condition which set in twelve days ago when his son, the Prince of Wales, arrived from his African tour has been slightly enhanced by the return of his youngest son, Prince George.

For the last few nights, the king has been sleeping better but last night he did not rest as comfortably as usual.

Sir Stanley Howett, surgeon-apothecary to the king, was more watchful than he has been for some time. The king had some sleep during the night, but was more restless.

Palace officials informed the United Press however, that the slight progress mentioned in the bulletin issued last night was being maintained.

FIRE BLAMED FOR $37,000 DAMAGES

CONNEAUT, O., Dec. 22.—Damages estimated at $37,000 was caused yesterday by fire of unknown origin which started over a pool room, destroyed three buildings and for a time threatened the entire harbor business section.

Buildings were estimated at $25,000 and fish nets owned by the Grow Fishing Co. valued at $12,000 were destroyed. Fire departments of Conneaut, Amboy and East Conneaut fought the flames for five hours.

ATTACK WOULD END EFFORTS TO SETTLE DISPUTE ON BORDER

Paraguay Fears More Clashes May Result

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 22.—Thirty-five hundred Bolivian troops, consisting of 3,000 infantrymen and 500 cavalrymen are marching on the city of Bahia Negra, the newspaper La Patria said today.

The newspaper added that should the Bolivian contingent attack the city, the encounter would be one of major importance and would nullify the efforts of the Pan-American arbitration and conciliation conference to settle the Bolivian-Paraguayan crisis.

The new crisis over the disputed Chaco region began December 3 when Paraguayan and Bolivian troops clashed. A series of clashes have followed since then.

Bahia Negra is situated about 100 miles north of what is given on most maps as the Paraguayan-Bolivian boundary, thus falling within Bolivian territory, although the entire surrounding district is marked "disputed." Both countries claim the region.

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 22.—Troops are leaving Asuncion daily for the Paraguayan-Bolivian frontier, the Asuncion correspondent of La Prensa wired his paper today.

The contingents are being sent up the Paraguay River by boat.

Excepting for the continuous passage of troops through the city and the unusual activity in government departments, the city has appeared tranquil since the good offices of the Pan-American arbitration and conciliation conference were accepted in the dispute with Bolivia, it was added.

The correspondent said that in spite of the reports from Washington that the conference was making satisfactory progress in its effort to adjust the dispute, the Paraguayan fear that the presence of Bolivian troops in the Gran Chaco district will provoke fresh clashes. He said that it was also believed that Bolivia will not accept the points brought out by the conciliation conference.

The general opinion expressed in well informed quarters in Buenos Aires today was that the conference should compel each country to withdraw its troops from the district in order that fresh clashes might be averted.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 22.—The Vanguardia Regiment, consisting mostly of university students, has been equipped with uniforms and will leave immediately for Tarija. The regiment will take up quarters in the district.

The Tarija district is in the heart of the disputed Gran Chaco region and is immediately adjacent to the Paraguayan-Bolivian frontier.

Minister of War Suarez, in an interview with the United Press, denied today the charges contained in a Paraguayan note to the League of Nations that Bolivia had captured other Paraguayan forts besides Boqueron.

The minister said Fort Boqueron was only taken after a Bolivian troops were threatened by a Paraguayan attack.

The newspaper El Norte commenting on the order of mobilization issued by President Jose Guggiar of Paraguay today said, "this demonstrates Paraguay's very peaceful procedures."

DRY KANSAS FACING PROBE OF DRINKING

TOPEKA, Kas., Dec. 22.—Kansas, legally dry more than forty years, faced a sweeping liquor investigation today, ordered by Clyde M. Reed, governor-elect. Reed asserted legislative liquor parties have become a public menace in the capital of the nation's second state to adopt prohibition.

"These booze parties have grown until they have become a public menace," Reed said. "The parties, given by lobbyists with intention to influence legislation, are a matter of common knowledge and growing apprehension on the part of good citizenship."

"Violation of the prohibition laws is flagrant during sessions of the legislature. After I take office Jan. 14, I am going to attempt to enforce the dry laws especially in regard to booze parties staged by legislators."

GIRL IS CAPTURED

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Dec. 22.—Probate Judge J. H. Lammick has been notified that Estella Russell, 15, of Mineral City is held at Nashville, Tenn., on a Mann act charge. The girl disappeared from her home here September 9. William Gibson, 37, her brother-in-law was found with her later, is serving a sentence in the Tuscarawas County jail for contributing to delinquency.

CONVICT INVENTS DEVICE TO STOP STATIC

LOUIE CLERNT Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to Gazette

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 20.—Not for nothing has Louie Clernt spent his time in the Lincoln penitentiary since 1922. To most men of his age, especially convicts, life has passed the success point. Louie is 52.

He has been toiling since his incarceration for bank robbery. More than that, he has been using his mind as he worked. He has invented a radio static eliminator. It will be worth a fortune if it functions as well as Clernt claims. A patent has been applied for the device and several radio concern representatives have already interviewed its convict maker.

Assisting Louie in his endeavors are Warden W. T. Fenton and a former prominent banker of Omaha who recently finished a stretch of six years, following an embezzlement charge.

Thousands of dollars have been expended in the attempt to eliminate static from radio reception. Thus far there has been little or no success. Clernt's device works on the principle of catching the static and discharging it before it reaches the loud speaker.

A trusty, Louie is hoping for a parole next June, though his sentence will not be concluded for another nine years. A wife and five children await his freedom in Cleveland, O. It is Clernt's greatest ambition to provide them with everything. He is through with crime. His hopes rest entirely with his invention—made in his cell at Lincoln.

Poems that Live

WHEN SHE COMES HOME

WHEN she comes home again! A thousand ways I fashion, to myself, the tenderness Of my glad welcome: I shall tremble—yes; And touch her, as when first in the old days I touched her girlish hand, nor dared upraise Mine eyes, such was my faint heart's sweet distress Then silence: and the perfume of her dress: The room will sway a little, and a haze Cloy eyesight—soul-sight, even—for a space; And tears—yes; and the ache here in the throat To know that I so ill deserve the place Her arms make for me; and the sobbing note I stay with kisses, ere the tearful face Again is hidden in the old embrace.

—James W. Riley (1852-1916)

WILMINGTON POLICE CHIEF IS DEFENDANT IN DAMAGE SUITS

Three suits demanding damages aggregating $6,520.25 are on file in Common Pleas Court against Police Chief Ben South, Wilmington, as a sequel to an auto collision on the Dayton-Xenia Pike at the Pennsylvania Railroad viaduct near the Hawker Reformed Church last November 21.

One action for $5,008.75 was filed by Mary C. Watson, Xenia, colored, who sets forth she was a passenger in a touring car driven by her son, H. O. Watson, returning home from Dayton.

She charges that Chief South was driving toward Dayton on the wrong side of the road and was to blame for the head-on crash in which she sustained injuries that may be permanent. The plaintiff asserts her face was bruised, her eyes were bruised and discolored, her left knee was sprained, her back was hurt and that she sustained a nervous shock and is unable to sleep at night.

Her demand for damages includes $5,000 for personal injuries and $8.85 for expense of medical treatment, which it is declared will continue indefinitely.

Mrs. Watson, as administratrix of the estate of W. E. Watson, deceased, also sued for $500 damages on behalf of the estate, claiming the touring car was owned by the Watson estate and was wrecked.

H. O. Watson, son of Mrs. Watson, is plaintiff in the third suit for damages totalling $1,011.50. He alleges personal injuries received.

The McDowell and Torrence Lumber Co. has been awarded a cognovit note judgment for $135.77 against Lindell Charles Ridley, according to an entry filed in Common Pleas Court.

AWARDED DIVORCE On grounds of gross neglect of duty, Crystene Lavern Cannon has been granted a divorce from Frank Harold Cannon in Common Pleas Court and was ordered restored to her maiden name of Crystene Leman.

CASE DISMISSED The suit of The Eaton National Bank, Eaton, O., against J. J. Kunder and A. H. Christman has been settled and ordered dismissed in Common Pleas Court.

MAYL PROMOTED Ed Mayl, bureau manager of International News Service at Columbus, has been promoted to the Washington bureau where he will represent Ohio client papers and be Ohio adviser to the capital staff.

Mayl, a former Dayton newspaper man, is a brother of Mrs. Carl Schweibold, Chestnut St., city.

FAIR BOARD SHOWS PROFIT FOR LAST YEAR'S OPERATIONS

A profit of $2,695.40 for the last fiscal year, covering the period from December 7, 1927 to December 14, 1928, is shown in the annual report of the Greene County Agricultural Society made public by Erant U. Bell, treasurer.

Total receipts amounted to $16,780.06, including a bank balance of $33.49, and disbursements aggregated $14,141.17, leaving a bank balance of $38.89 after $2,600 has been applied to pay off part of the principal on the indebtedness of the society, the report shows.

Gate receipts during the three days of the 1928 County Fair totaled $4,517.50. Premiums awarded in the various fair departments amounted to $8,433.50, a considerable increase over last year when premiums aggregated $7,858.50. The larger premium list is attributed to the revival of stake racing at the fair this year and the consequent bigger purses.

With the $2,600 applied to the society's outstanding indebtedness this year, the debt has been reduced to $10,500. Since October 1, 1923, the debt has been reduced $15,404.21.

Figures compiled by Treasurer Bell disclose that the original cost of the fairgrounds October 3, 1923 was $15,500. The new art hall cost $2,400 to build and the new grandstand brought the total cost of ground and buildings to $32,424.76. The society had $6,520.25 cash on

DAYTON MAN BRINGS SUIT HERE AGAINST DEFIANCE AUTOIST

Suit to recover $550 as a result of alleged damages to his automobile in an accident on the Dayton and Valley Pike in Greene County last November 29 has been filed in Common Pleas Court by George P. Huffman, Dayton, against James D. Fahey, 1032 Riverside Ave., Defiance, O.

The plaintiff charges he was driving his sedan west on the highway and that the collision occurred when the defendant, recklessly driving forty miles an hour, tried to pass another car on a steep grade without regard to the machine approaching in the opposite direction. It was further charged Fahey attempted to pass the car despite the fact he was unable to see over the brow of the hill.

The plaintiff claims his car was in first-class condition and reasonably worth $1,750 before the accident. The crash reduced its value to $550 he claims.

Burkhart, Heald and Pickrel, Dayton, O., are attorneys for the plaintiff.

WHEN MEN ARE SPINELESS, WOMEN IDLE

The pioneering in China is done by American missionaries both men and women. Chinese men and women are too idle and unadventurous to explore and settle their own fertile lands. These statements are made by Marshal Feng, war minister of the new Chinese National State.

"For at least half a millennium no one has thought of Chinamen or Chinawomen as pioneers," says a writer in "Time." "They have chosen not the virile and womanly covered wagon, but the sedentary and exquisite silken robe. Today China has only one Daniel Boone—the great Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang. Last week he lectured Chinafolk severely for their timid sit-by-the-hearthishness and failure to pioneer. 'Is it any wonder,' he roared, 'that we are laughed at by imperialist countries, who treat us contemptuously, as though we were their little grandsons? They do not even esteem us as much as their cats and dogs.'

"I am told," cried Feng sarcastically, 'that when men in Honan desire to move to the adjoining province of Shensi in search of livelihood, their wives seize their robes and sob, 'Ai-ya, my loved one, why will you go to that far-away place?' "If we continue as spineless as this, what is to become of us? Other people's women spread their sails and travel ten thousand miles to accomplish their purpose. And we? We progress not a single inch in anything."

With a few leaders like Feng China may yet awaken from its long slumber and really do something in the world.

RADIO BROADENS FARMER'S OUTLOOK

In nearly every farm home there is some kind of hook-up that goes by the name of radio. Over this instrument the farmer hears some of the outstanding news, speakers on topics of the day, market quotations, the best of the orchestras playing classic selections and the modern song hits. Above all he obtains invaluable news on the political campaign during the recent pre-election broadcasting.

"Squibs from a Farmer's Notebook," written by George Godfrey in "Successful Farming" contains this item: "In the pre-election campaign last fall we got a new insight in the change the radio is making in our lives. Never before have people gone to the polls with so much first-hand information as to candidates, platforms, and policies, as in last November. This is especially true of the farm voter. We never had such an opportunity because we were so scattered. The bulk of the campaign activity naturally was centered in the cities; now the farm home has access to it all. Voting was not an impersonal duty. There was a new personal interest in candidates. In our local precinct there were fewer straight party tickets than ever before. We are thinking as we vote. I have always felt that the most sane and conscientious voting class in the country was the farmers and that vote is now strengthened by opportunity of more definite knowledge."

This same thing also applies to many city folk who do not get about or read as much as they might. It means a new factor for the nation's welfare when so many more people can be induced to take a wider interest in its affairs and go to the polls prepared to vote more intelligently than ever before.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE RIGHT MIND

Homer, Greek poet, speaks of "the glory of a firm, capacious mind." Very unfortunate for many of us who have little minds. But some large minds are not much better. They are capacious but not firm. A kind of inconsistency which enables a man to change his opinion in the light of new truth is greatly to be desired. But the kind of changeableness which isn't based on new information or on thought denotes a mind that may be broad but shallow. It is capacious but not firm.

THE MIND AGAIN

On the subject of the mind one might well recall the words of the philosopher Berkeley:

"All the choir of heaven and furniture of earth—in a word, all those bodies which compose the mighty frame of the world—have not any substance without a mind."

ELECTION LESSONS

The election is now a few weeks past and there has been time to think about some things in connection with it. The most encouraging aspect was not the selection of any particular candidate, although candidates are important. The significant thing was the enormously increased interest of the American people in the affairs of their republic. The size of the vote justifies a new belief in the possibilities of democratic government. It is to be hoped the renewed spirit will continue to burn.

WISE DELAY

Putting off until tomorrow ranks as a bad habit, but one should not condemn the custom as a whole. It all depends upon what you put off. One of the happiest and most successful men the writer ever knew used to say: "Don't do anything today that you can put off until tomorrow—but be sure you know what you can afford to put off."

Trying to get everything done today or this week or this month is not worth the wear and tear. If you go home with work unfinished, if you have to start on a trip with work left undone, don't let it worry you. Take it up when you get back, at the place where you left off. Do the important things, the few significant, vital things. Take the others up in order. Man was never made to proceed and return like a sky rocket.

The Diary
of a
New Yorker

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEW YORK—It is a question whether his ultimate fame would have rested on his writings—appearing in magazines and in novels that create plenty of discussion—or on his way with women. Several months ago he met a young woman, a promising young writer, in a city in the Middle West. The girl was from a smaller town, a "good family," in the larger town visiting an aunt. With the aunt's permission the writer invited the girl to a small party which he was to give at the hotel—he said—at which there were to be present several other persons, most of them known to the aunt.

She went to the hotel and was shown to the writer's suite, where there were obvious preparations for a small party, but no guests. While they were "waiting" the host suggested a cocktail. After considerable urging the girl accepted a drink, asterisk, asterisk, asterisk.

The girl, who has worked on a New York newspaper, is at present in a sanatorium here, a mental wreck. Probably she will not live. With her are her father and a brother, the latter commissioned as a deputy sheriff from the home county and state. He has a secretly drawn warrant and secretly drawn extradition papers signed by the governor, who has known the girl since she was a child.

If the girl dies the papers will be served, and the "man in the case," if he reads this, probably will learn for the first time that the penalty under the law of the old-fashioned state in which the offense was committed is "to be hanged by the neck until dead."

The law is mandatory upon jury and trial judge. Only one man can avert execution of sentence. That man is—and for two more years will be—the girl's childhood friend, the governor.

SONNET OF ELAPSED ECSTASY

The Borgia, for her sport, made men drink death,
And Beatrice's beauty made a poem;

Informed with flame great Dante's lyric breath,
I only cite these ladies as a poem.

To what I am about to say to you,
Fair Lisa's portrait makes men wonder ever.

As to what made her smile's so secret hue,
Some woman always makes a man's ender.

On any plane (I'll get to you directly),
And in one thing you make your province, too, dear;

I only want to word it circum-spectly,
And so . . . that is to say . . . I mean that you, dear,

Make triumph where no woman has aspired;
You join the great ones here: you make me tired.

—Paul Lee Carr.

One of the greatest song hits of the year is "I Can't Give You Anything but Love," but it is not, as was carelessly stated recently, selling 200,000 copies daily.

The ditty is the hit of "Blackbirds," the all-colored revival. It made the composer, Jimmy McHugh, popular with the better class, although he has written hits for years. It also brought prestige to Levky Fields' daughter, Dorothy, making her debut as a lyricist. But what was the started out to report was that the delightful song might never have been known, for it was in the score of "Delmar's Revels" earlier in the year and chucked out during the first week. It might have saved that show, for "Little Jessie James" only had one song hit, which gave the girl opera a long distance run. That redeeming feature was called "I Love You."

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Two eminent psychologists, at Columbia university recently completed an elaborate investigation to find out what kind of young folks are most likely to be honest and truthful.

They rigged up all sorts of ingenious tests to detect dishonesty.

One of the simplest was to pass out a list of books and ask a group of students to check the books they had read.

The student who tried to make himself out a bookworm by checking most of the titles, falls into a trap, for several of the titles are just imaginary.

One of the results of the investigation is to raise a strong suspicion that giving of prizes has a tendency to promote dishonesty. People will often lie or cheat to receive a prize or honorable mention when otherwise they might stay truthful.

In other words, the more you offer a boy if he receives a high grade at his next examination, the greater is the strain you put on his honesty. He may want the reward so much that he will copy answers of another smart fellow's paper.

A chance remark overheard by a mother of a small boy was relayed by her to the father.

"John, it's positively shameful the way Junior talks," she said, "I just hear him say: 'I ain't never went nowhere.'"

"Shameful!" raged the father. "It's worse than that! Why, the young whelp has traveled twice as much as most kids his age!"

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Vice-President Dawes is not exactly a senator.

That was his first mistake. Then that time when he was called on to decide a tie vote—on the senate's confirmation of Charles Beecher as attorney general. And he happened to be taking a nap and didn't get there soon enough—resulting in the defeat of Charles Beecher's appointment—not so nice for Charles Beecher, and not so nice for President Coolidge, who had appointed him and was slapped in the face by the senate—all because the vice president was slumbering at the switch, at the well-known psychological moment.

That kind of an opportunity never knocked at Charles G.'s door again.

Next, Charles G. tried to become the farmers' hope of salvation. And that failed to "take." To be sure, the farmers gave him credit for meaning well, but they gave Frank O. Lowden credit for meaning better. But Charles G. did succeed in antagonizing his big business friends, by the smiles he cast on the equalization fee.

In short, everything Charles G. had committed himself to in the last four years has turned out to be a lemon.

Charles G. appears to be one of those folk who is almost equal to being "somebody"—almost but not quite—just enough so as to be aggravating—everlastingly ambitious and everlastingly doomed to disappointment.

There is some talk of him as secretary of state under President-elect Hoover—but nobody takes it seriously.

Vice-President Dawes looks pretty glum, presiding over his last three months' sessions of the senate. He realizes, as well as anybody, how fate has played horse with him.

Charles G. has certainly bit off more than he could chew when he undertook to put some efficiency into the United States senate.

Behold him now! presiding over his last short session.

Not much like the old Charles G. is he? No, you bet he isn't. Vice-President Dawes hasn't any further idea of "reforming" the senate. The senate can waste all the time it wants to, for all he cares. All he's in a hurry about is to have March 4 get here, and have it over with.

Charles G. Dawes certainly bit off more than he could chew when he undertook to put some efficiency into the United States senate.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The second step to beauty should be a stimulating process, or "making your skin work." No skin can be beautiful if it is not alive, healthy and elastic. And no skin, however lovely it may be in youth, can long remain so if it does not receive the care to keep it actively functioning. It is the one particular purpose that stimulation achieves, for the careful scrutiny of your skin you see the first signs of early wrinkles, a tendency toward the downward droop of tissue and muscular relaxation, you may correctly assume that your skin needs stimulation, for the pores, tissues and muscles are "laying down on their jobs."

In the morning, after your cleansing cream has been removed, pat a little stimulating skin-food all over face, neck and throat. Leave it on for about ten minutes, or while you are having your bath. Then remove it with quick strokes of your tissues.

At night—and again, after cleansing—a liquid stimulant will prove marvelously beneficial for whipping the blood into action.

A few drops of the stimulant on a ball of cotton will stir up your circulation, bring color into your cheeks, and stimulate your weary, overtired muscles into setting about their normal duties.

The third form of stimulant is massage—and this is the one you must be most careful about. Incorrect massage can do a great deal of harm. Bear always in mind that your movement must be light, circular and upward, and thereby you will avoid most of the errors which result in broken down muscles and tissues. Rhythmic patting; or in other words, a light slapping movement, is exceedingly good and entails no danger of stretching the skin. The object of all forms of skin stimulation is to speed up the circulation, as the blood is nature's great rejuvenator and tissue builder.

Students in Calcutta, India, are making such disturbances in the areas that members of audiences are protesting that they cannot follow plays or pictures.

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Swiss Steak Mashed Potatoes
Brown Gravy with Mushrooms
Creamed Cabbage
Waldorf Salad
Caramel Pudding Coffee

Swiss steak is a comparatively inexpensive dish and delicious, too. The tomato may be omitted and water used in its place. Add the mushrooms after the gravy is made and strained.

Today's Recipes

Swiss Steak—Three pounds lean beef, or round steak, about two and one-half inches thick, three tablespoons melted suet, one-half cup flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two and one-half cups hot tomato juice and pulp or hot water. Sift the flour, salt and pepper together and beat thoroughly into the steak with a meat pounder. The pounding makes the meat more tender and the flour absorbs the juice. Cut the steak into individual portions if desired. Sear the meat in the hot fat in a heavy skillet or kettle. Cover with the tomato juice and pulp or the water, adding more if necessary. Place a lid on the cooking pan and simmer two hours or until the meat is so tender it can be cut with a fork. Turn the pieces occasionally during the cooking. If the gravy becomes too thick add more liquid from time to time. There should be plenty of rich gravy to serve with the meat. Onions may be browned and cooked with the meat if desired. Serve piping hot.

Caramel Pudding—Boil a can of condensed milk for three hours. When the three hours are up, remove the can from the water, and put it in the ice box to chill. Then cut the can open, remove the contents which have been caramelized. Cut in cubes and serve on slices of whipped cream, or topped with vanilla ice cream.

For children from six to twelve every day's menu should include the following food:

Fruit, twice a day; one cooked cereal; egg almost every day; raw vegetables (celery, cabbage or carrots); cooked vegetable; potato; meat or meat substitute; simple dessert; whole grain breads; one quart milk.

THOUSAND ISLAND DRESSING

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

Three-Minute Mayonnaise—whole egg, three tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon mustard, one and one-half teaspoons sugar, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one and one-half cups salad oil. Put egg, seasoning, salt, one tablespoon of the acid and one-fourth cup of oil in a bowl and beat. Add remaining oil, one-fourth cup at a time, beating vigorously. A time during the mixing chopped olives added make it Thousand Island.

The Blood Pressure
What causes a low blood pressure?

In the first place, R., you must know that the normal blood pressure of individuals may differ just as much as the size of the nose or the frame, etc. Then, again, the individual pressure varies during different times of the day; after exercise, after standing, lying down, after emotion, etc., it is higher.

The average normal blood pressure of adults is 123 around the ages of 15 to 20. Then it is gradually increased to 135 or so up to the age of 70. Yours may be slightly lower than this and still be normal for you.

Much lower than this average-normal pressure is sometimes observed in chronic diseases and in run-down conditions. Too high pressure is frequently found in excess weight. There is a type of high blood pressure known as essential high blood pressure, for which the cause cannot be determined, but there is one, of course.

Those who have a pressure higher than normal must not be worried if they cannot get it down suddenly, for a sudden lowering would be harmful. The heart has become accustomed to working against a certain resistance, and if this is lowered too suddenly, it may be injured. It is possible that a heightened blood pressure may never be lowered and still the heart continues to want to impress on you that to carry on perfectly well.

You should not worry about your blood pressure, for worry is one of the factors that cause it to be disturbed. The only thing to do is to live as hygienically as you can, and then if it is high or low, and does not change, realize that perhaps it is now normal for you. We have an article on the subject which you may have.

Diet in High Blood Pressure
Samsun, of Santa Barbara, is demonstrating that many types of high blood pressure can be reduced by the non-acid diet. This means a diet composed largely of fruits (except peaches, plums, cherries, and sorrel), milk (except milk products), and nuts (except almonds and walnuts). Oils and eggs are neutral unless taken in excess. This leaves all flesh-forming foods. The normal diet, however, should have both of foods, but a larger proportion of the non-acid forming foods. We have an article on the Diet which you may have.

Just a few lines to tell you what Peterizing has done for me. I feel better than I have in five years. I did not weigh 125 pounds. I had not been weighing for a long time and I was struggling down to 178 and will continue until I am down to 130. Peterizing is certainly the thing. I have tried every other way, and the only thing I lost was my money.

Your total loss will have to be about 75 pounds. A. Don't get too enthusiastic and try to lose too rapidly. One and one-half pounds, or even one pound a week, is enough when there is so much to be lost. Keep up with your exercises. Be sure to have the foundation diet which we recommend.

Those of you who haven't our pamphlet on the subject, and one article on the Atonic Abdominal Wall for exercises, may have them by observing column rates.

THE TROUBLES OF THE TEENS SEEM TRAGEDIES TO THEM

Do I think young people of 16 have trouble, one of my correspondents asks me. Indeed they do, from affairs of the heart and inferiority complexes to indistinguishable eyelashes and pimples.

And I am inclined sometimes to think the pimples are more serious than the love affairs, as they are generally more lasting.

It is hard for parents to sympathize with these troubles as much as they should, because they are having what they consider much more serious woes with the high cost of living and sometimes with tragedies of sickness and death.

All troubles are comparative, however, and what may seem to others to be trivial, looms large when one is young and tender.

Brown Eyes writes at length and asks many questions, most of which it seems to me, I have answered time and again. However, Brown Eyes, here goes again.

Sixteen is not too young to begin to go with nice boys if your parents do not object. Same with an occasional ride. Petting parties appeal to me as the sport of morons, but an occasional kiss for the boy you truly love is not a crime. A young man who is very much in love wishes to see his should tell the man they love of a former mistake. I was married very young and the first boy I knew was a lover. After a few years of married life he developed a temperament that made living with him almost impossible. About this time I was thrown into the company of another man who, after a while, made some advances to me. I told my husband. Fifteen years have passed, and while I am still living with him, life is a nightmare.

There is hardly a week passes that my husband does not throw this thing in my face, although I never see him and would not have him in the world. That is my experience. How often have I wished that I had sense enough to keep the silly thing to myself and saved the tranquility of my home. "EXPERIENCED." With such a husband, if he had not had this thing to torment him, with he would have found something else. It is his nature, his confession, that has made the unhappiness. You have sympathy.

Broken Hearted: Maybe your friend is afraid of being teased by does not show his interest in you when you are school. I would do as he does, sweetheart every day, but usually has to regulate his visits according to his work or school. His home, and many other things, inexpensive gifts may be accepted by the girl friend with propriety. The kind of girl who is interested in her friend's boy friends should be sent to Coventry—left out of the crowd's doing until she learns to leave things alone that don't concern her. And, finally,

MAKE a list of yourself and make the self as charming as possible, and await results.

Lonesome Sweetheart: If the boy friend really cares for you, he will find a way to see you, so cheer up.

"Dear Virginia Lee: You often have letters written to you from girls who are in doubt as to whether they save your friendship until after school hours, if I were you.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I wish you would give me your opinion about this situation: Last week I had a quarrel with a fellow I have been going with for over a year. He went home 'mad,' but he didn't say that he would never see me again. I realize that I was in the wrong, and I like him better than I thought I did. Would you advise me to do how can I get him back?

SORRY R. Whether you get him back or not, the thing to do is to write to him and tell him you realize you were in the wrong and want to apologize.

"Haven't you ever done anything without knowing how you did it? But there, how silly of me to be foolish! Only I got so tired of having everyone ask me the very moment they meet me—'Well, Carrier, how do you find your way home, anyhow?'

Trying to get everything done today or this week or this month is not worth the wear and tear. If you go home with work unfinished, if you have to start on a trip with work left undone, don't let it worry you. Take it up when you get back, at the place where you left off. Do the important things, the few significant, vital things. Take the others up in order. Man was never made to proceed and return like a sky rocket.

The Diary

of a

New Yorker

By WALTER WINCHELL

NEW YORK—It is a question whether his ultimate fame would have rested on his writings—appearing in magazines and in novels that create plenty of discussion—or on his way with women. Several months ago he met a young woman, a promising young writer, in a city in the Middle West. The girl was from a small town, a "good family," in the larger town visiting an aunt. With the aunt's permission the writer invited the girl to a small party which he was to give at the hotel—he said—at which there were to be present several other persons, most of them known to the aunt.

She went to the hotel and was shown to the writer's suite, where there were obvious preparations for a small party, but no guests. While they were "waiting" the host suggested a cocktail. After considerable urging the girl accepted a drink, asterisk, asterisk, asterisk.

The girl, who has worked on a New York newspaper, is at present in a sanitarium here, a mental week. Probably she will not live. With her are her father and a brother, the latter commissioned as a deputy sheriff from the home county and state. He has a secretly drawn warrant and secretly drawn extradition papers signed by the governor, who has known the girl since she was a child.

If the girl dies the papers will be served, and the "man in the case," if he reads this, probably will learn for the first time that the penalty under the law of the old-fashioned state in which the offense was committed is "to be hanged by the neck until dead."

The law is mandatory upon jury and trial judge. Only one man can avert execution of sentence. That man is—and for two more years will be—the girl's childhood friend, the governor.

SONNET OF ELAPSED ECSTASY

The Borgia, for her sport, made men drink death,
And Beatrice's beauty made a poem;
Informed with flame great
Dante's lyric breath.
I only cite these ladies as a poem
To what I am about to say to you.
Fair Lisa's portrait makes men wonder
As to what made her smile's so secret hue.
Some woman always makes a man's endeavor
On any plane (I'll get to you directly).
And in one thing you make your province, too, dear;
I only want to word it circumspectly.
And so . . . that is to say . . .
I mean that you, dear,
Make triumph where no woman has aspired:
You join the great ones here:
You make me tired.
—Paul Lee Carr.

One of the greatest song hits of the year is "I Can't Give You Anything but Love," but it is not, as was carelessly stated recently, selling 200,000 copies daily. The ditty is the hit of "Blackbirds," the all-colored musical comedy, popular with the better class, although he has written hits for years. It also brought prestige to Lew Fields' daughter, Dorothy, making her debut as a lyricist. But what we started out to report was that the delightful song might never have been known, for it was in the score of "Delmar's Revels" earlier in the year and chucked out during the first week. It might have saved that show, for "Little Jessie James" only had one song hit, which gave the girl-ops a long distance run. The redeeming feature was called "I Love You."

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Two eminent psychologists, at Columbia university recently completed an elaborate investigation to find out what kind of young folks are most likely to be honest and truthful.

They rigged up all sorts of ingenious tests to detect dishonesty. One of the simplest was to pass out a list of books and ask a roomful of students to check the books they had read.

The student who tried to make himself out a bookworm by checking most of the titles, falls into a trap, for several of the titles are just imaginary.

One of the results of the investigation is to raise a strong suspicion that giving of prizes has a tendency to promote dishonesty. People will often lie or cheat to receive a prize or honorable mention when otherwise they might stay truthful.

In other words, the more you offer a boy if he receives a high grade at his next examination, the greater is the strain you put on his honesty. He may want the reward so much that he will copy answers of another smart fellow's paper.

TAINT RIGHT

A chance remark overheard by a mother of a small boy was repeated by her to the father. "John, it's positively shameful the way Junior talks," she said. "I just hear him say: 'I ain't never went nowhere.'"

"Shameful?" raged the father. "It's worse than that! Why, the young whelp has traveled twice as much as most kids his age!"

CARROLL

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—Vice-President Dawes is not exactly a "lame duck."

In order to be lame, a duck must have been beaten. Vice-President Dawes was not beaten. Charles G.'s political life, however, can be fairly described as a terrible failure. All he ever has been—politically—is vice-president. If anything can be more completely abortive than that, for Pete's sake what is it?

To rise, by honesty, industry, superior ability and darned good luck, out of the vice-presidential obscurity to some proud position, like President Coolidge or Governor Curtis or Tom Marshall—that is a fitting ending for a tired old war horse.

But never to have been anything but vice-president!—O! "vanitas vanitatum"—what a fizzle!

Charles G.'s future looked so bright, too!—only four short years ago next March—as he picked up that gavel for the first time, whanged it on the desk in front of him and proceeded to read the riot act to the assembled senators.

Behold him now!—presiding over his last "short session."

Not much like the old Charles G. is he? No, you bet he isn't. Vice-President Dawes has lost any further idea of "reforming" the senate. The senate can waste all the time it wants to, for all he cares. All he's in a hurry about is to have March 4 get here, and have it over with.

Charles G. Dawes certainly bit off more than he could chew when he undertook to put some efficiency into the United States senate.

That was his first mistake. Then that time when he was called on to decide a tie vote—on the senate's confirmation of Charles Beecher Warren as attorney general. And he happened to be taking a nap and didn't get there soon enough—resulting in the defeat of Charles Beecher's appointment—not so nice for Charles Beecher, and not so nice for President Coolidge, who had appointed him and was slapped in the face by the senate—all because the vice president was slumbering at the switch, at the well-known psychological moment.

That kind of an opportunity never knocked at Charles G.'s door again.

Next, Charles G. tried to become the farmers' hope of salvation. And that failed to "take." To be sure, the farmers gave him credit for meaning well, but they gave Frank O. Lowden credit for meaning better. But Charles G. did succeed in antagonizing his big business friends, by the smiles he cast on the equalization fee.

In short, everything Charles G. has committed himself to in the last four years has turned out to be a lemon.

Charles G. appears to be one of those folk who is almost equal to being "somebody"—almost but not quite—just enough so to be aggravating—everlastingly ambitious and everlastingly doomed to disappointment.

There is some talk of him as secretary of state under President-elect Hoover—but nobody takes it seriously.

Vice-President Dawes looks pretty glum, presiding over his last three months' sessions of the senate. He realizes, as well as anybody, how fate has played horse with him.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The second step to beauty should be a stimulating process, or "making your skin work." No skin can be beautiful if it is not alive, healthy and elastic. And no skin, however lovely, it may be in youth, can long remain so if it does not receive the care to keep it actively functioning. It is the one particular purpose that stimulation achieves.

If, upon the careful scrutiny of your skin you see the first signs of early wrinkles, a tendency toward the downward droop of tissue and muscular relaxation, you may correctly assume that your skin needs stimulation, for the pores, tissues and muscles are "laying down on their job."

In the morning, after your cleansing cream has been removed, pat a little stimulating skin-food all over face, neck and throat. Leave it on for about ten minutes, or while you are having your bath. Then remove it with quick strokes of your tissues.

At night—and again, after cleansing—a liquid stimulant will prove marvelously beneficial for whipping the blood into ac-

Household Hints

MENU HINT

Swiss Steak Mashed Potatoes
Brown Gravy with Mushrooms
Creamed Cabbage
Waldorf Salad
Caramel Pudding Coffee

Swiss steak is a comparatively inexpensive dish and delicious, too. The tomato may be omitted and water used in its place. Add the mushrooms after the gravy is made and strained.

Today's Recipes

Swiss Steak—Three pounds lean beef, or round steak, about two and one-half inches thick, three tablespoons melted butter, one-half cup flour, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, two and one-half cups hot tomato juice and pulp or hot water. Sift the flour, salt and pepper together and beat thoroughly into the steak with a meat pounder. The pounding makes the meat more tender and the flour absorbs the juice. Cut the steak into individual portions if desired. Sear the meat in the hot fat in a heavy skillet or kettle. Cover with the tomato juice and pulp or the water, adding more if necessary. Place a lid on the cooking utensil and simmer two hours or until the meat is so tender it can be cut with a fork. Turn the pieces occasionally during the cooking. If the gravy becomes too thick add more liquid from time to time. There should be plenty of rich gravy to serve over the meat. Onions may be browned and cooked with the meat if desired. Serve piping hot.

Caramel Pudding—Boil a can of condensed milk for three hours. When the three hours are up, remove the can from the water, and put it in the ice box to chill. Then cut the can open, remove the contents which have been caramelized. Cut in slices, and serve on slices of canned pineapple, topping with whipped cream or chopped nuts. You will find this pudding very rich, and a little of it goes a long way; so make the portions discreet.

Suggestion

Children's Menu

For children from six to twelve every day's menu should include the following foods: Fruit, twice a day; one cooked cereal; egg almost every day; raw vegetables (celery, cabbage or carrots); cooked vegetable; potato; meat or meat substitute; simple dessert; whole grain breads; one quart milk.

THOUSAND ISLAND DRESSING

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

Three-Minute Mayonnaise—whole egg, three tablespoons lemon juice or vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon mustard, one and one-half teaspoons sugar, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one and one-half cups salad oil. Put egg, seasoning, one tablespoon of the acid and one-fourth cup of oil in a bowl and beat. Add remaining oil, one-fourth cup at a time, beating vigorously. Remaining acid is added a little at a time during the mixing. Chopped stuffed olives added make it thousand island.

The Blood Pressure
What causes a low blood pressure?
R.

In the first place, R., you must know that the normal blood pressure of individuals may differ just as much as the size of the nose or the frame, etc. Then, again, the individual pressure varies during different times of the day, after exercise, eating, standing, lying down, after emotion, etc., it is higher.

The average normal blood pressure of adults is 123 around the ages of 15 to 30. Then it is gradually increased to 135 or so up to the age of 70. Yours may be slightly lower than this and still be normal for you. Much lower than this average-normal pressure is sometimes observed in chronic diseases and in run-down conditions. Too high pressure is frequently found in an excessive weight. There is type of high blood pressure known as essential high blood pressure, for which the cause cannot be determined, but there is one, of course.

Those who have a pressure higher than normal must not be worried if they cannot get it down suddenly, for a sudden lowering would be harmful. The heart has become accustomed to working against a certain resistance, and if this is lowered too suddenly, it may be injured. It is possible that a heightened blood pressure may never be lowered and still the heart continues to want to impress on you that to carry on perfectly well.

You should not worry about your blood pressure, for worry is one of the factors that cause it to be disturbed. The only thing to do is to live as hygienically as you can, and then if it is high or low, and does not change, realize that perhaps it is normal for you. We have an article on the subject which you may have.

Diet in High Blood Pressure
Samsun, of Santa Barbara, is demonstrating that many types of high blood pressure can be treated by the non-acid diet. This means a diet composed largely of fruits (except prunes, plums, cranberries), vegetables (except rhubarb and sorrel), milk and milk products, and nuts (which are slightly acid). Oils and eggs are neutral unless taken in excess. This leaves all flesh, and eggs and grains for the forming foods. The normal, however, should have both of foods, but a larger proportion of the non-acid forming food.

We have an article on Blood Diet which you may have.

"Just a few lines to tell me, I feel better than I have for five years. I did weigh 150 pounds, I had no heart, and I was stupid when I saw my weight. I am now down to 178 and will continue until I am down to 135. Petersizing is certainly the thing. I have tried every other way, and the only thing I lost was my money."

Your total loss will have to be around 75 pounds. A. Don't get too enthusiastic and try to lose too rapidly. One and one-half pounds, or even one pound a week, is enough, when there is so much to be lost. Keep up with your exercises. Be sure to have the foundation diet which we recommend.

Those of you who haven't our pamphlet on the subject, and article on the "Automatic Abdominal Wall" for exercises, may have them by observing column rules.

THE TROUBLES OF THE TEENS SEEM TRAGEDIES TO THEM

Do I think young people of 16 have trouble, one of my correspondents asks me. Indeed they do, from affairs of the heart and inferiority complex, to indistinguishable eyelashes and pimples.

And I am inclined sometimes to think the pimples are more serious than the love affairs, as they are generally more lasting. It is hard for parents to sympathize with these troubles as much as they should, because they are having what they consider much more serious woes with the high cost of living and sometimes with tragedies of sickness and death. All troubles are comparative, however, and what may seem to others to be trivial, seems large when one is young and tender.

Brown Eyes writes at length and asks many questions, most of which it seems to me, I have answered time and again. However, Brown Eyes, here goes again. Sixteen years have passed, to begin to go with nice boys if your parents do not object. Same with an occasional ride. Petting parties appeal to me as the sport of morons, but an occasional kiss for the boy you truly love is not a crime. A young man who is very much in love wishes to see his should tell the man they love of a former mistake. I was married very young to the first boy I knew as a lover. After a few years of married life he developed a temperamental that made living with him almost impossible. About this time I was thrown into the company of another man who, after a while, made some advances toward me. I told my husband everything the man said. Fifteen years have passed, and while I am still living with him life is a nightmare.

There is hardly a week passes that my husband does not throw this thing in my face, although I never see the man and could not have him if I were the only man in the world. That is my experience. How often have I wished that I had had sense enough to keep the silly thing to myself and saved the tranquility of my home. "EXPERIENCED." With such a husband, if he has not had this thing to torment him, he would have found something else. It is his nature, your confession, that has made the unhappiness. You have sympathy.

Broken Hearted: Maybe your friend is afraid of being teased by your mutual self mates, so does not show his interest in you when you are school. I would try to get him to go with nice boys if your parents do not object. Same with an occasional ride. SPORT
SHOTS

FRAMED BY PHIL

It appears that interest for girls' basketball games in Xenia has been revived. Xenia, unlike a number of other cities, has never been represented by a feminine independent basketball team, but girls employed at the Smith Advertising Co., E. Main St., have taken steps to remedy this if possible.

At least a dozen girls employed by the firm, who are interested in the sport, plan the organization of a basketball team, more for the exercise at present than anything else. They have been practicing among themselves in the building where they are employed and have not yet organized or selected a name.

Their present predicament is in finding a suitable place to practice and to play. Their next dilemma will be to find opponents. They have acquired the services of Clarence Horen and Robert Hall to instruct them in the fundamentals of the indoor sport and it is their ultimate hope, if sufficient talent is uncovered, to play regular games with other girls' teams.

Several years ago Xenia Central High was represented by a girls' basketball team, which for a time thrived. Interest, however, soon flickered and finally died out. All of the Class B schools in the county have girls' basketball teams and it is difficult to conceive why the experiment should not be tried out again at Central.

There is considerable agitation among business men of the city for the revival of a Y. M. C. A. in Xenia. Although this is considered unlikely, there is a strong sentiment for the holding of gym classes in the old Y. M. C. A. building at Market and Green Sts. Business men are generally in favor of it and have indicated they would like to enroll in such classes if the plan takes concrete form.

Thirteen members of Xenia Central's 1928 football squad are still awaiting the awarding of letters in recognition of their gridiron service to the school. School officials declare there has been a delay in obtaining the insignias but that they are expected soon. Last season when the school ordered basketball letters, football letters were received instead. This fall the opposite was the case. Football letters were ordered and strangely enough basketball awards came.

Caesarcreek Twp., High School basketball teams emerged victorious in a double-header with Mt. Pleasant High School of Clinton County on the Caesarcreek floor Friday night. Caesar girls won an easy 26 to 4 victory in the preliminary but the boys experienced greater difficulty in downing their opponents, 16 to 10 in a defensive battle. The girls' game was played with each team using five players instead of six.

Central Defeats Wilmington High Team 18-13

BUCCANEERS AVENGE UPSET OF LAST YEAR; IS SECOND VICTORY

Xenia Defense Smothers Attack Of Orange Hurricane; Xenia Guards Still Not Too Busy To Make Most Of Points; Murphy Held Scoreless

By PHIL FRAME

AFTER getting away to a slow start, Xenia Central High School's "Buccaneers" speeded up and administered a thorough 18 to 13 drubbing to Wilmington High for their second consecutive pre-holiday victory of the season Friday night at the Central gym.

Thus have the Bucs already avenged two defeats of last season by trimming Leesburg and Wilmington. For the first few minutes of the bitter struggle, Wilmington held a small advantage and it wasn't until late in the opening quarter when Xenia's passing game began to click in its best form that the Bucs' real superiority showed itself. Central had things under control from then on and was never headed thereafter.

It was a game which, in spots, was notable rather for hard, earnest play than for finished technique. Xenia played its customary calm, deliberate type of basketball on offense and did it to a queen's taste. The Bucs played a characteristically waiting game up on finding Wilmington's defense difficult to penetrate and with a lead of a few points they often fell back into the back court and forced their opponents to come to them.

Wilmington, with a small but fast passing team, did not have an eye for the basket and that fact combined with the style of guarding put forth by Xenia caused its downfall as much as anything. When the Quakers tried to break through for short shots, they ran against a stone wall and were compelled to take long chances, a thing to which they were evidently not accustomed.

On Xenia's part, there were not so many attempts to score but a

WESLEYAN DEFEATS CEDARVILLE 52-18 IN FRIDAY CONTEST

Hnizder, Whatever That Is, Tallies 19 Of His Team's Points

Ohio Wesleyan University, conqueror of Ohio State, outclassed Cedarville College by the wide margin of 52 to 18 in a one-sided basketball tilt at Alford gymnasium, Cedarville, Friday night.

Leading from start to finish, Wesleyan's veteran crew held an advantage of 28 to 8 at the half. Nine Wesleyan players saw service in the contest and each scored two or more points.

Hnizder, forward, tallied nineteen points on the strength of eight baskets and three fouls for high score of the contest. Smith, center, topped Cedarville with seven points while Allen made five and Gordon six.

Wesleyan, considered a strong contender for the Buckeye Association title this season, presented such a light defense that Cedarville was limited to five field goals. On behalf of the "Yellow-Jackets" it may be said that they were worn out from the furious struggle with Muskingum last Wednesday night and were perhaps not in their best condition. Cedarville missed many shots and Wesleyan did also for that matter.

Cedarville's next game is with Rio Grande at Gallipolis, O., January 10, giving the team a much-needed rest after playing a series of games with teams out of its class.

Coach Bost's tribe has won one game so far, defeating Antioch, while losing in succession to Wilmington, University of Cincinnati, Muskingum and Ohio Wesleyan. Cedarville, however, lost the Cincinnati and Muskingum games by close margins.

In a preliminary game, Cedarville High School defeated the college reserves 18 to 15. Lineups and summary:

JUNIOR HIGH BEATS BEAVER RESERVES IN CURTAIN RAISER

Patterson's Pets Victors In Second Contest

Leading all the way, Central Junior High School's basketball team won its second game in a row by defeating the Beaver Creek High School reserves 27 to 11 in the curtain-raiser to the Xenia-Wilmington tilt at Central gymnasium Friday night.

Coffelt, per usual, controlled the tip-off for the winners and Cramer was high-point man of the game with four buckets for eight points. Flory, Smith and Michael each crashed in with two baskets. Coffelt and Ringer contributed a field apiece.

Ralls played a fine defensive game. Of the Beaver High second team, Shellbarger looked best at forward Muterspah, regular Central Junior center, and Swartz, back guard, were prevented by illness from playing in the contest.

The Downtown Country Club climbed to within one full game of first place in the City Bowling League by winning three straight games from Oldsmobile while the rejuvenated Brown Furniture Co. was taking two out of three games from the league leading Fuller Brothers in the league double-header Friday night.

Fred Flynn rolled best for the D. T. C. Club while Merriman topped Oldsmobile hussach as he was the only member of his team to show up for the match. He was subsequently placed at the disadvantage of using three dummy stars.

Browns came near making a clean sweep of the three games with the leaders, losing the final game by two pins. Blackentoe led the winners and G. Fuller the losers.

Incidentally one league bowling record went by the boards when G. Fuller registered a previous high mark of 239 held by LeSourd, by five pins. Box scores:

BELLBROOK DEFEATS SPRING VALLEY HIGH ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Performing the unexpected, Bellbrook High School, 1927-28 county Class B basketball champions, registered a surprisingly easy 26 to 16 victory over the highly-touted Spring Valley High quintet on the latter's floor Friday night.

Bellbrook girls made the invasion complete by trimming Spring Valley's feminine team 29 to 11 in the preliminary.

Bellbrook boys led at the half 16 to 13 but pulled away from their opponents with astonishing rapidity in the final session. C. Barton scored thirteen points for the winners and Beam countered with ten markers for Spring Valley. The losers substituted frequently in a vain effort to find a winning combination. SPORT SHOTS

FRAMED BY PHIL

It appears that interest for girls' basketball games in Xenia has been revived. Xenia, unlike a number of other cities, has never been represented by a team independent of basketball team, but girls employed at the Smith Advertising Co., E. Main St., have taken steps to remedy this if possible.

At least a dozen girls employed by the firm, who are interested in the sport, plan the organization of a basketball team, more for the exercise at present than anything else. They have been practicing among themselves in the building where they are employed and have not yet organized or selected a name.

Their present predicament is in finding a suitable place to practice and to play. Their next dilemma will be to find opponents. They have acquired the services of Clarence Horen and Robert Hall to instruct them in the fundamentals of the indoor sport and it is their ultimate hope, if sufficient talent is uncovered, to play regular games with other girls' teams.

Several years ago Xenia Central High was represented by a girls' basketball team, which for a time thrived. Interest, however, soon waned and finally died out. All of the Class B schools in the county have girls' basketball teams and it is difficult to conceive why the experiment should not be tried out again at Central.

There is considerable agitation among business men of the city for the revival of a Y. M. C. A. in Xenia. Although this is considered unlikely, there is a strong sentiment for the holding of gym classes in the old Y. M. C. A. building at Market and Green Sts. Business men are generally in favor of it and have indicated they would like to enroll in such classes if the plan takes concrete form.

Thirteen members of Xenia Central's 1928 football squad are still awaiting the awarding of letters in recognition of their gridiron service to the school. School officials declare there has been a delay in obtaining the insignias but that they are expected soon. Last season when the school ordered basketball letters, football letters were received instead. This fall the opposite was the case. Football letters were ordered and strangely enough basketball awards came.

CAESARCREEK WINS FROM MT. PLEASANT OF CLINTON COUNTY

Caesarcreek Twp., High School basketball teams emerged victorious in a double-header with Mt. Pleasant High School of Clinton County on the Caesarcreek floor Friday night. Caesar girls won an easy 26 to 4 victory in the preliminary but the boys experienced greater difficulty in downing their opponents, 18 to 10 in a defensive battle. The girls' game was played with each team using five players instead of six.

Central Defeats Wilmington High Team 18-13

BUCCANEERS AVENGE UPSET OF LAST YEAR; IS SECOND VICTORY

Xenia Defense Smothers Attack Of Orange Hurricane; Xenia Guards Still Not Too Busy To Make Most Of Points; Murphy Held Scoreless

By PHIL FRAME

AFTER getting away to a slow start, Xenia Central High School's "Buccaneers" speeded up and administered a thorough 18 to 13 drubbing to Wilmington High for their second consecutive pre-holiday victory of the season Friday night at the Central gym.

Thus have the Bucs already avenged two defeats of last season by trimming Leesburg and Wilmington.

For the first few minutes of the bitter struggle, Wilmington held a small advantage and it wasn't until late in the opening quarter when Xenia's passing game began to click in its best form that the Bucs' real superiority showed itself. Central had things under control from then on and was never headed thereafter.

It was a game which, in spots, was notable rather for hard, earnest play than for finished technique. Xenia played its customary calm, deliberate type of basketball on offense and did it to a queen's taste. The Bucs played a characteristically waiting game on defense, waiting for the Wilmington defense to penetrate and with a lead of a few points they often fell back into the back court and forced their opponents to come to them.

Wilmington, with a small but fast passing team, did not have an eye for the basket and that fact combined with the style of guarding put forth by Xenia caused its downfall as much as anything. When the Quakers tried to break through for short shots, they ran against a stone wall and were compelled to take long chances, a thing to which they were evidently not accustomed.

On Xenia's part, there were not so many attempts to score but a

WESLEYAN DEFEATS CEDARVILLE 52-18 IN FRIDAY CONTEST

Hinzler, Whatever That Is, Tallies 19 Of His Team's Points

Ohio Wesleyan University, conqueror of Ohio State, outclassed Cedarville College by the wide margin of 52 to 18 in a one-sided basketball tilt at Alford gymnasium, Cedarville, Friday night.

Leading from start to finish, Wesleyan's veteran crew held an advantage of 28 to 8 at the half. Nine Wesleyan players saw service in the contest and each scored two or more points.

Hinzler, forward, tallied nineteen points on the strength of eight baskets and three fouls for high score of the contest. Smith, center, topped Cedarville with seven points while Allen made five and Gordon six.

Wesleyan, considered a strong contender for the Buckeye Association title this season, presented such a tight defense that Cedarville was limited to five field goals.

CHRISTMAS PARTY ENJOYED BY SCOUT TROOP HERE FRIDAY

Troop No. 45, Boy Scouts of America, enjoyed a Christmas party Friday evening at the Scout cabin.

Supper was served at 6 o'clock for forty Scouts of the troop in addition to members of the troop committee, the Scoutmaster, assistant Scoutmasters and their wives. Kiosk goose with all the trimmings headed the menu.

After the meal, the troop held its regular meeting and interesting plans for Scout activities during the coming year were outlined.

Santa Claus appeared during the evening and distributed gifts to everyone present. An interesting talk on Scout work was also heard. The Scoutmaster was presented with a Scoutmaster's hat on behalf of the troop and the troop committee. The committee desires to thank the women who helped make the party a success.

The Scout cabin was decorated in holiday fashion and a lighted Christmas tree added to the cheerfulness of the occasion.

FLAPPERS STOWING AWAY ON STEAMERS

CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 22.—The hazardous and adventuresome experience of stowing away aboard a ship is now being sought by the flappers as a new thrill, according to E. W. Arculus, veteran steward and former instructor of stewards for the U. S. Shipping Board.

Arculus, who recently visited old cronies in the seafaring colony of the South Jersey Coast, declared the romance of the sea is as keenly sought by young women as by members of the opposite sex—who have always considered the sea as a field of their own.

The steward said the number of young women who get a "kick" out of "hopping" aboard a trans-Atlantic vessel and stealing a ride to Europe is getting to be a serious factor with large companies. Arculus revealed drastic measures are being taken to watch gang plank at embarkation for fair stowaways. One company, he said, is considering a rule to have friends and relatives say farewell from the dock to prevent "free passengers" from boarding.

READ THIS FIRST:

Byrd and Larry Browning had been married only a short time. It had been love at first sight between a man who wanted life to move swiftly and excitingly and a girl, golden beauty, simply brought up in a small town, who expected to settle down and have a home and children.

There were many things that threatened their happiness right from the beginning: Larry's partnership with unscrupulous Jack Duncan in a speculative venture, floating the stock of the Builders' Supply Company, Larry's continual loans from Byrd's father, who was president of a bank in Jacksonville; the succession of parties with a fast-moving crowd, consisting of Tiny and Fred Oberman, Jack and Margy Duncan, Chet Everson and India Campbell, a former sweetheart of Larry's; Larry's growing extravagance; his refusal to break off his friendship with India; lastly, their increasing number of quarrels over bills, over liquor, over card games, over all sorts of differences.

Byrd's parents came to spend a week with them. Before they left, it was arranged that Byrd's young sister, Pat, who "was hitting the trail like the rest of these young colts," spend the summer with them.

Byrd became more and more worried at the net Jack seemed to be weaving about her, at the bills that hadn't been paid now for months, at India's growing hold on Larry, at Pat's coming, which complicated things still further; Pat, with her red hair and love of speed.

Byrd persuaded Pat to attend business school, but Pat wasn't enthusiastic, particularly when Byrd substituted a tailored outfit for the bright clothes she had just bought. In an attempt to discourage the friendship between Pat and India, which had grown up like a mushroom, Pat referred to Byrd's own conduct on a certain night. One night when Pat and Larry had gone to a movie, Jack Duncan had forced his attention on Byrd, and as she fainted, Pat and Larry had burst in. Now Byrd had attempted to prevent Pat's knowing that Chet had seen her about the bad reputation which Larry's and Jack's project was getting, but Pat didn't know this.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

Byrd had been asleep several hours when Pat burst in. She did some dance steps, imitating those she had evidently seen on the stage, prouetting around the bedroom.

"Good picture?" asked Byrd, sleepily, her head against her bare arm, which glimmered under the coronet of gold like dull satin.

"You bet! And the dancing was like a little girl, taking off her shoes and stockings. India and I are going to take Russian ballet lessons with an interesting Russian teacher she knows about," she bubbled, throwing her clothes all over the bedroom floor. "We're going to see him tomorrow. I'm going to meet her for lunch."

"Did you forget, Foolish, that you start to school tomorrow?" asked Byrd, evenly.

"No. Unconscious. I didn't forget to remember! I just decided I wasn't going to that old business college!" Pat looked up for a fleeting moment to see the effect of this ultimatum on Byrd, and then hurried on: "Larry's not so keen about my going. Not right away. You heard what he said about seeing something of the big town first before I go into business."

Byrd was plainly flustered. A flash of anger spread like a dull red curtain over her features. A furious anger against India for weaving this spidery web about Pat—anger against Larry, for aiding and abetting Pat's easy shirking.

Byrd didn't trust herself to discuss the matter right then and there.

Pat got home right after lunch the next day, announcing that she and India had signed for a course of dancing lessons and had taken their first lesson.

"Pay for it?" asked Byrd, non-committally.

"Why, of course," asserted Pat, "and I paid for India's, too. She didn't have that much with her. I gave him a check."

"How much?" asked Byrd.

"Fifty dollars apiece for twenty-four lessons," answered Pat. "A little steep, isn't it? At Jacksonville you can get any kind of a dancing lesson for fifty cents."

She laughed gaily.

At two o'clock Pat and Byrd drove out to Margy's. Byrd had hoped to go alone, but she couldn't avoid asking Pat to go with her.

In spite of Byrd's feeling of annoyance over the vanity case, she felt a little sigh of relief and contentment in just being out of doors, and driving along the mapeline road leading to the suburbs where the Duncans lived.

"I'm going to take ballet lessons," announced Pat.

They left the hot, willing, smoky air of the city far behind them, here the little breezes had a chance to hop, skip and jump.

Margy answered the door. One glance told Byrd that she loved her worst.

Margy seemed never to have recovered her color after Peter's illness. She looked grey and dispirited. Even her hair had taken on a moldy pallor. The little wisps of it that straggled down her neck looked like the edge of a shroud.

An untrained bob, Byrd decided, could look more triumphant than a tight little knob on the nape of the neck.

Since Peter's illness, Margy had continued the habit of holding him, and Joan, soiled and dripping from an all-day sucker, was hanging on to Margy's skirts.

"I used to think of Margy as such a good housekeeper," Byrd said to herself, dismayed at the sight of all this topsy-turviness.

The house was upside-down, crumpled all over, 128 living room floor, last night's newspapers still on the table, the children's toys over everything, and a diaper thrown carelessly over the back of a chair.

Pat stepped gingerly through the door as Byrd introduced her. Margy's apologies ran into tireless detail. Why hadn't Byrd telephoned that they were coming? So few people ran out that far that she hardly expected any one any more. The landlady had disappointed her that morning and she had been trying to wash out the children's things. She had let her maid go after Peter got better.

"I want to talk to Margy," said Byrd to Pat, after a little while. "Would you mind taking Peter and Joan out down for a little while?"

Pat didn't bat an eye. Byrd knew very well that she loathed babies, especially when they were still in the cocoon stage, when they were all moist and smelled suspiciously of mold. Even Joan's face was completely ruined by a little, smudgy, sickly nose.

"All kids howl the minute I look at them," Pat said, hoping that she would get her idea across to Byrd without offending Margy.

En Pat said that Margy resembled having her children called "kids."

"Please," insisted Byrd, and Pat smothered a "Darn," grabbed Peter, who immediately started to wail, and departed out of the rear living room door with Joan trotting beside her.

Byrd plunged at once into the object of her visit.

It was hard to explain to Margy that Jack had run after her that night at the Meadowbrook Club, and insisted on getting into the car with her and going home with her. But she did. It was hard to explain her revulsion to Jack, and the reasons for it. But she did that, too.

She couldn't doubt Margy's complete understanding of the whole situation. Margy was used to Jack's disloyalties.

"I'm sorry that you're Jack's

JOHNSON IS FOUND GUILTY; TO SERVE TERM IN OHIO PEN

Robert Johnson, 25, who, with Harry Duncan, 19, is alleged to have set fire to the County Jail with possible delivery in view while incarcerated as a prisoner there several weeks ago, was found guilty of burglary and larceny by a jury in Common Pleas Court Friday afternoon.

Judge R. L. Govey had once sentenced him to serve from one to fifteen years in Ohio State Penitentiary.

Johnson's trial began Friday morning and the jury, after receiving the case, deliberated less than half an hour before arriving at the verdict.

Johnson and Duncan were indicted for breaking into the private garage of G. R. Hisey, 410 Cincinnati Ave., last October 24.

Duncan was also convicted of burglary and larceny by a jury Thursday and received a sentence of from one to fifteen years in the state reformatory at Mansfield.

Arson charges against the pair in connection with the attempt to burn the jail building will be considered by the January grand jury. In the event indictments are returned, the youths will be returned here for trial.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. JACOB M. JOHNSON

Mrs. Cynthia Johnson, 67, wife of Jacob M. Johnson, Yellow Springs, passed away suddenly at her home Saturday morning at 4:45 o'clock. Death was caused by a heart attack, following a week's illness from grip.

Mrs. Johnson was before marriage Miss Cynthia Alexander, and spent her entire life in Greene County. She was born on a farm between Cedarville and Clifton but lived in Yellow Springs since her marriage.

Surviving are her husband, and the following brothers and sisters: John Alexander, Richmond, Calif.; Jacob Alexander, Knowles, Okla.; Mrs. Minnie McMillan, Cedarville; Arthur Alexander, Chicago, Ill.; Miss Ann Alexander, Will Alexander and Mrs. Abbie Rahm, all of Yellow Springs.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 3 p. m. at the residence with burial in Glen Forest Cemetery.

ROTARIANS HOSTS TO XENIA BOYS

The spirit of Christmas prevailed at the Elks' Club Friday evening when thirty-five boys of the city were guests of the Xenia Rotary Club at its annual Christmas party.

The club members made merry with their young charges for the evening and good times prevailed during the entire party. A chicken dinner was served early, as the opening feature of the affair and later toys, candy and other gifts were distributed about a handsomely decorated Christmas tree.

The Rev. W. H. Telford entertained the youngsters with a chalk talk and a "Punch and Judy" show.

EAST END NEWS

Mr. Charles Edwards of Jasper Ave. was called to Chicago last Friday on account of the illness of his daughter, Mrs. Mabel Edwards Johnson. A telegram was received Wednesday by Mrs. Edwards that Mrs. Johnson passed away Tuesday. She will be buried in Chicago.

Mr. Orange Ellison of the James town Pike, who has been ill with grip for two weeks, is somewhat improved.
